S&S ACTIVEWEAR ANNOUNCES NEW 750,000 SQ. FT FACILITY IN ILLINOIS

Bolingbrook, IL...August 28, 2018 – S&S Activewear – the leading wholesale distributor of imprintable apparel – is expanding its Midwest presence with a new 750,351 square foot distribution center in Lockport, Illinois.

The new facility is bigger, brighter, and better equipped to handle the company's increasing inventory. Highlights of the new warehouse include more space for a deeper inventory position and an expanded SKU offering, a larger break room, new material handling systems, and a dedicated photo studio for marketing efforts.

Just a short distance from S&S's current Bolingbrook office, the new location will allow the S&S team to expand its operations and inventory, while retaining its current staff and bringing on new team members.

Built with people and the planet in mind, the new location will offer customers, employees and carriers easier access to freeways, reducing time spent in traffic. LED lights and solar power paneling on the roof will help minimize the company's carbon footprint – an ongoing priority for the S&S team. A radiant heating system and increased fan count will be installed to keep team members warm in the winter and cool throughout the summer months.

"Our priority at S&S is to fulfill the needs of our customers – which are expanding every day," says President Jim Shannon. "The new Lockport facility is equipped with the space and technology needed to meet the company's growing customer demand."

Over the past year, S&S has expanded its presence across the nation, with new and expanded distribution center facilities in New Jersey, Texas, Georgia, Nevada, and now Lockport.

"By meeting our customers where they are, we are able to create deeper relationships with them," adds Shannon. "It's these relationships that have been the foundation of our business since day one."

The opening of the Lockport facility would not be possible without the support and collaboration from the State of Illinois. S&S would like to thank its partners at Cushman & Wakefield and Prologis for making this expansion a reality.

The new Lockport distribution center is slated for opening in Q3 2019.
